

TRANSKRYPCJA NAGRAŃ

Zadanie 1.

1.1.

A: Hello. What can I do for you?

B: I'm looking for an album with pictures of flowers.

A: We have a beautiful album with many colourful pictures of flowers. Its title is The Flowers of England.

B: Can I look at it, please?

A: Of course, here you are.

1.2.

A: Good morning.

B: Good morning, I would like to buy something special for my girlfriend.

A: What about these wonderful roses? We have a special offer – three for the price of two.

B: Great, I'll have nine.

A: Would you also like a greetings card?

B: Sure, the one with the sun looks great.

1.3.

A: Good afternoon. How can I help you?

B: I would like to buy two small rolls.

A: Here you are. Anything else?

B: Yes. How much is a loaf of sunflower bread?

A: It's £ 3.20.

B: I'll have that too.

If you want to speak with the receptionist, she will be happy to answer all your questions – just press nine on your keypad now!

Zadanie 3.

A: Hi Josh, it's Julie!

B: Hi Julie! What's going on?

A: I'm calling to tell you something about our new school timetable.

B: OK, let me take a pen and paper to write it down... ok I'm ready.

A: Well, I have only three days – and I must say the timetable looks horrible! So, on Monday and Tuesday we start at a quarter past eight, but we can sleep a bit longer on Wednesday, because the classes begin at a quarter to nine!

B: And what are the lessons on Monday?

A: Firstly, we have two Maths classes and then Physics and Geography.

B: Oh no, that's terrible! What about Tuesday?

A: We have six classes – Two Polish classes, English, History, PE and Art... no sorry, PE is the last one.

B: And Wednesday?

A: Only five classes – German, Maths, IT, I mean two classes of IT of course and, finally, Chemistry.

B: Uhm... thanks for the information, Julie.

A: Oh, and I've just remembered – Maths won't be in classroom 13 any more, we are meeting in classroom 30 from now on.

B: Thanks, Julie!

A: No problem! See you at school! Bye!

B: Bye, Julie!
