

By the river

All kinds of creatures live in and around a wide, slow-flowing river running through the middle of a thick forest.

Beaver pool

Beavers build dams on rivers. The water behind floods into still pools, where they make nests, called lodges.

These little beaver pups have left their lodge to swim in the pool. Trace the line of river weed that will take them back home.

River jumble

This picture is a jumble of different animals. Can you spot the three that DON'T live in a river?
